

August 16th to 19th, 2017 at the Corwin Pavilion
North American Solid State Chemistry Conference
University of California Santa Barbara

Solid State Chemistry is concerned with preparation, characterization, property measurement, and device testing of extended organic, inorganic, and hybrid compounds. Held on alternate years with the Gordon Research Conference on Solid State Chemistry, the biennial North American Solid State Chemistry Conference (NASSCC) emphasizes oral presentations by students, postdoctoral fellows, early-career faculty members, and research scientists.

NASSCC meetings have been previously held at Texas A&M University (2007), Ohio State University (2009), McMaster University (2011), Oregon State University (2013), and Florida State University (2015).

List of Invited Speakers:

Mario Bieringer (Manitoba)
Michelle Dolgos (Oregon State)
Danna Freedman (Northwestern)
Yan-Yan Hu (Florida State)
Kristie Koski (UC Davis)
Alex Norquist (Haverford)
Catherine Oertel (Oberlin)
Katharine Page (ORNL)
James Rondinelli (Northwestern)
